REV. MR. HAYDEN'S LECTURE

MR. JESSE BILLINGS, JR., CONGRATULATES THE CLERGYMAN.

The Scene in the Academy of Music—A Web from the Rev. Dr. Stephen H. Tyng, Jr.—Judge Fancher's Introduction—The Augustinian Brothers Crowding the Stage.
 Probably a thousand persons heard the Rev. Heribert, of the Augustinian Order, state his evidence in the Academy of Music last evening. Mr. Hayden appears to be unfortunate in the larger cities. A severe storm prevented a large audience in Hartford, and the inclement weather had its effect last evening. The parrot and amphitheatre were three-quarters filled. The boxes of the stockholders were vacant. Mrs. Hayden occupied a prosenium box, filled with friends. A hundred or more ladies and gentlemen were seated on the platform. The Rev. Dr. Stephen H. Tyng, Jr., the Rev. Mr. Bonham, the Rev. Dr. Herr, the Rev. Little Smith, the Rev. Dr. Gaudet, A. V. Stott, Henry Stoffen, H. J. Jordan, and Mr. Jesse Billings, Jr., of Saratoga City, were among them. The audience was apparently of the highest respectability, and in full sympathy with the speaker.

Mr. Hayden took his seat on the platform, flanked by Rev. Dr. Tyng and Judge Endicott, at 8 o'clock. Dr. Tyng called the meeting to order. He said that he was glad to be one of those who extended a welcome to the speaker of the evening. "The people, after all, are the true Court of Appeals. A man who has suffered the persecution of the Rev. Mr. Hayden now confidently comes before them, seeking his own vindication. Judge Fancher of the Court of Arbitration will introduce Mr. Hayden."

Dr. Tyng sat down. Judge Fancher began his introduction by referring to the witnesses at the trial in New Haven. Thirteen professors, fifteen physicians, and four clergymen were on the stand. The professors and physicians contradicted each other, and the clergymen were contradicted by members of their own churches.

A week was spent over the testimony of an expert, who said that Mrs. Hayden could not see a cause sufficient to avoid a shipwreck in the known of her son's innocence. The jury then visited Blockland, and hadiculars of the wife's story. Since the case of Senator Cowper, mentioned by Macaulay, no case of such magnitude has given rise to so much comment. Reputation, liberty, and life were at stake. The State of Connecticut had attempted to bring the Rev. Mr. Hayden into the dock. Eleven out of twelve juries, on the evidence, had instantly declared the prisoner guilty. The prosecution was mainly composed of malignant, venomous, and unjust persecution. "All honor to Counselors Jones and Watrous," said Justice Parsons, "but the presumption of guilt in the trial of Mr. Billings answered. "The same error was made at the first trial, but it proved to have no foundation."

Mr. Hayden, who holds his good night by writing his name in the album of a persistent autograph hunter, "You may rest assured that the prosecution have found a witness to say that he saw his son running toward the dock with a gun. Is there any truth in this?"

"With you, Sir," said Mr. Hayden before this evening's audience.

"No, Sir," replied. "I came here expressly to see him. We had exchanged letters, but nothing more."

"What do you think of his lecture?" we asked.

"Perfect," he answered. "It ought to be printed in every newspaper in the country. No one knows better than I do the dangers of circumstances."

"With you, Sir, can certain be tried next month?"

"I can secure the attendance of my witnesses," was the reply.

"Let me repeat that the prosecution have found a witness to say that he saw his son running toward the dock with a gun."

"Yes, Sir," said Mr. Hayden, "and the tide is set."

"You must ascertain the date when the trial is set."

"I will, Sir," said Mr. Hayden, "and I will make arrangements to be present."
